Rosicrucian PKD

VALIS Appendix: Tractates Cryptica Scriptura

10. Apollonius of Tyana, writing as Hermes Trismegistos, said ‘That which is above is that which is below.’ By this he meant to tell us that our universe is a hologram, but he lacked the term.

11. The great secret known to Apollonius of Tyana, Paul of Tarsus, Simon Magus, Asklepios, Paracelsus, Boehme and Bruno is that: we are moving backward in time. The universe in fact is contracting into a unitary entity which is completing itself. Decay and disorder are seen by us in reverse, as increasing. These healers learned to move forward in time, which is retrograde to us.

20. The Hermetic alchemists knew of the secret race of three-eyed invaders but despite their efforts could not contact them. Therefore their efforts to support Frederick V, Elector Palatine, King of Bohemia, failed. ‘The Empire never ended.’

21. The Rose Cross Brotherhood write, ‘Ex Deo nascimur, in Jesu mortimur, per spiritum sanctum reviviscimus,’ which is to say, ‘From God we are born, in Jesus we die, by the Holy Spirit we live again.’ This signifies that they had rediscovered the lost formula for immortality which the Empire had destroyed. ‘The Empire never ended.’

25. As living information, the plasmate travels up the optic nerve of a human to the pineal body. It uses the human brain as a female host in which to replicate itself into its active form. This is an interspecies symbiosis. The Hermetic alchemists knew of it in theory from ancient texts, but could not duplicate it, since they could not locate the dormant, buried plasmate. Bruno suspected that the plasmate had been destroyed by the Empire; for hinting at this he was burned. ‘The Empire never ended.’

26. It must be realized that when all the homoplasmates were killed in 70 C.E. real time ceased; more important, it must be realized that the plasmate has now returned and is creating new homoplasmates, by which it has destroyed the Empire and started up real time. We call the plasmate ‘the Holy Spirit,’ which is why the R. C. Brotherhood wrote, ‘Per spiritum sanctum reviviscimus.’

Umland p.94 I hope that this chapter will prompt a literary criticism of Dick's entire corpus that more fully accounts for his philosophical and religious obsessions, one that assumes that these obsessions are not late developments of his life (which they were not), or marginal in any definition of his fiction (they are not), but utterly essential to it... I have come to the conclusion that Dick cannot be understood fully except by approaching him through the great historiographers and hermeneuticists of esoteric religion and the occult: Hans Jonas, Mircea Eliade, Gershom Scholem, and, above all, Carl Jung.

Rosicrucians in Selected Letters (thanks Lord RC–no pun intended)

There are two index entries in SL 74 on the Rosicrucians: (1). page 256. to Rosicrucian Supply Bureau, Sep 30, 1974 -- list of 13 items PKD ordered. (2). page 300. to Nancy Hackett, Dec 11, 1974 -- Phil encloses an "article by the first Imperator of the order which I belong to, the Rosicrucians. I think this is an excellent presentation of Rosicrucian feelings about Jesus, and I'd appreciate it very much if you could read it to Isa as well as read it yourself; I'm sure you will enjoy it."

These items included: Conscious Interlude G637, Cosmic Consciousness G615, Mystical Life of Jesus G503, Sepher Yetzira G525, Herb Packet S60, Incense Burner S13, Sanctum Set S66

Exegesis - Zebra and Microcosm/Macrocosm

+, like an alechmical [sic] transformation, Zebra turning the irreal into the real. The totality of reality, micro- + macro cosmos seen in alchemical terms, in alchemical process from lower (Base) to higher (Noble). Hence the info about Mercury.

Bruno and the Yates Thesis

Frances Yates, Giordano Bruno and the Hermetic Tradition

The Hermetic experience of reflecting the universe in the mind is, I believe, at the root of Renaissance magical memory, in which the classical mnemonic with places and images is now understood, or applied, as a method of achieving this experience by imprinting archetypal, or magically activated, images on the memory. By using magical or talismanic images as memory-images, the Magus hoped to acquire universal knowledge, and also powers, obtained through the magical organisation of the imagination a magically powerful personality, tuned in, as it were, to the powers of the cosmos. (p.191-192)

Yates Art of Memory

244 Bruno's interest was not in the outer world but in the inner world. And in his memory systems we see the effort to operate the magico-mechanical laws, not externally, but within, by reproducing in the psyche the magical mechanisms." (GBHT 450ff.)
245 Bruno's assertion that the astral forces which govern the outer world also operate within, and can be reproduced or captured there to operate a magical mechanical memory seems to bring one close to the mind machine
228 the aim of the memory system is to establish this magical ascent within 229 Thus the classical art of memory... has become the vehicle for the formation of the psyche of a Hermetic mystic and magus

Exegesis
Clearly, Bruno is my main man, and could of all people explain 2-74/3-74: these experiences of mine make sense [best or only] within his hermetic hylozoic cosmology. In summary: within these past four days I have cracked the case; I now know what formerly I only believed or merely hoped, suspected—it is all as I supposed. From the start I was always really right—informed by 2-74/3-74 itself. In my 49th year, September 7, 1978, I know complete fulfillment. Amen.

[3:10] Ubik is constructed around a now-discarded hylozoic Macro-Microcosm cosmology which has been replaced by Newton's mechanistic model; the Ubik one, although I didn't realize it, is an animistic biological model which I did not know ever even existed: it lasted from Empedocles to Bruno. It also is Gnostic.

7) The Hermetics may be the ones who carried the true secret Xtian Gnosis down through the ages. As Bruno knew, "magic memory" (anamnesis) is involved. I.e. the immortal apostolic Xtian is reborn but only latent in the person-host + still in his own age (CAD 45 Rome) until anamnesis is achieved. 8) This latter is precisely what the Renaissance adepts figured out how to do

folder 02-076

- K.W. has loaned me the book "The Rosicrucian Enlightenment" in which it is asserted that working through the Bohemian Elector Palatine Frederick the Rosicrucians hoped to bring a golden age of knowledge to the whole world - but the defeat of Frederick at White Mountain demolished their hopes + plans. They wished to break the monolithic Catholic hold politically + intellectually. Once again I entertain the notion that they are the true, secret xtians possessing extraordinary knowledge (+ hence powers), + may be these invisible agents who engineered - successfully - the downfall of the Nixon tyranny - +, furthermore, were responsible for my 3-74 enlightenment + subsequent political acts. They are as invisible now as they ever were. It is hopeless to seek them out; they seek you out + enlist you (the invisible college). Bruno's "magic memory" + techniques to induce it are involved, because thereupon one not only knows, but is plugged into - + hears - what I call the AI voice, who, I believe, coordinated it, them, us, all. In terms of the cybernetics/biological model which I use, one is restored to contact + functionality within the healthy totality of the macrobrain, able to avoid the deliberate noise of the heavy metal particle poisoning + poisoned in this "fallen" region.

Folder 03 - 015

7) The Hermetics may be the ones who carried the true secret Xtian Gnosis down through the ages. As Bruno knew, "magic memory" (anamnesis) is involved. I.e. the immortal apostolic Xtian is reborn but only latent in the person-host + still in his own age (CAD 45 Rome) until anamnesis is achieved. 8) This latter is precisely what the Renaissance adepts figured out how to do. Based on "occult" books from the Greco-Roman mystery religions, esp the Hermetics. 9) This was the real goal of alchemy (+ spiritual regeneration: individuation, in Jungian terms) + it was successful. Bruno

[3:28] The Soviets have guessed that Ubik contains a correct cosmology radically different from all accepted ones ... Richard was on the right track with Empedocles. That's the what; next they wanted to know how—how come. I proved to be an idiot savant, much to their disgust. Boy, what I could tell them now! [...] Maybe those 4 Marxists were right about Ubik being subversive to capitalist society.80 [...] I am tearing down time, space, causality, world—this would be subversive to capitalism, to the bourgeois mind which is intimately connected with 18th century Anglo-Saxon rationalism (Newton, Locke, Bentham, etc.). I am systematically undermining the philosophers and philosophy on which capitalism is based, and going back to a hermetic, Gnostic neoplatonism. And a vitalism replacing mechanism—I deal a lethal blow to anglo-saxon thought, to its vaunted pragmatism.

Frances Yates was the author of the Encyclopedia of Philosophy article on Giordano Bruno

Ephil p.407 The side of Bruno's work which he regarded as the most important was the intensive training of the imagination in his occult arts of memory. In this he was continuing a Renaissance tradition which also had its roots in the Hermetic revival, for the religious experience of the Hermetic gnostic consisted in reflecting the universe within his own mind or memory. The Hermeticist believed himself capable of this achievement because he believed that man's mens is in itself divine and therefore able to reflect the divine mind behind the universe. In Bruno, the cultivation of world-reflecting magic memory becomes the technique for achieving the personality of a magus, and of one who believes himself to be the leader of a religious movement.

EB p.408 "In the Hermetic phase of European thought, which was the immediate prelude to the seventeenth-century revolution, Bruno is an outstanding thinker."

PKD Exegesis, in Cosmology and Cosmogony Dick copies out the above quote

ART OF MEMORY. The side of Bruno’s work which he regarded as the most important was the intensive training of the imagination in his occult arts of memory. In this he was continuing a Renaissance tradition which also had its roots in the Hermetic revival, for the religious experience of the Hermetic gnostic consisted in reflecting the universe within his own mind or memory. The Hermeticist believed himself capable of this achievement because he believed that man’smens [mind] as in itself divine and therefore able to reflect the divine mind behind the universe. In Bruno, the cultivation of world-reflecting magic memory becomes the technique for achieving the personality of a magus, and of one who believes himself to be the leader of a religious movement [p. 407].

The kind of memory that Bruno was cultivating — and teaching techniques by which to restore this memory — is the long-term DNA gene pool memory that spans many lifetimes. The retrieval of this long-term memory is called anamnesis, which literally means the loss of forgetfulness. It is only by means of anamnesis, then, that memory truly capable of “reflecting the divine mind behind the universe” is brought into being. Therefore, if the human being is to fulfill his task — that of being a sort of mirror or image of the Urgrund — he must experience anamnesis.

E of Phil
405 Bruno as a Renaissance magus
406 safeguards... totally abandoned by Bruno (lifted directly from FY)
407 Bruno thought of the Copernican sun in the context of the magic of Ficino's De Vita (note that this is a commentary on Plotinus)

407 The closest paraellel to Bruno's imaginative leap upward through the spheres is the description in the Hermtic Pimander of how man "leant across the armature of the spheres, having broken through their envelopes."
407 The godless universe of Lucretius turns in the Brunian vision into a vast extension of Hermetic gnosis; in order to receive this within himself, man, that "great miracle" as he is defined in the Asclepius, must expand himself infinitely

407 The unity of the All in the One is a basic theme of the Hermetic writings and also of Bruno's. (PKD Valis is Plotinus's One -- don't actually need to go Hermetic to understand Bruno's One as NP)

407 Like all Renaissance magi, Bruno was a syncretist and drew from his vast reading many philosophies which had accreted to the Hermetic core. The pre-Socratics, Plato and the Platonists... all were incorporated into the central theme. (here's Dick's "gnostic-hermetic-neoplatonism" again)

408 He exemplifies the Hermetic religious impulse as a motive force behind the imaginative formulation of new cosmologies. (EB conclusion section again repeating FY, whose GBHT and ArtMem are listed in the bibliography)

"I'm Not Dead, It's Just That Plotinus Was Right": Neoplatonism and Anamnesis

Where I met my downfall was when I tried to read Plotinus. And I couldn't fathom what he was saying at all. Plotinus was not in print. There were no books then of his actual writing. There was a syllabus published by the University of Chicago--or Columbia, some goddamned university--and I couldn't make any sense of it. So I dropped philosophy at that point, and got interested in Jung, psychology, and veered off into that.

"by viewing it as a non-spatial journey, Plotinus made it available to this lifetime" ... "The other basic error in Western philosophy... corrected by Plotinus, was the error that the journey of the soul was spatial"

"I have come to Christian Platonism and am very close (if not congruent) to Plotinus' Neoplatonism and the possibility, expressed by Plotinus, of experiencing the Form world and the mind of the One"

"...unity is what I saw that made me realize I had seen Valis" ... "Like Plotinus' concept of concentric rings of emanation, we encounter our Others in gradually increasing intensity and clarity"

"My 5-D realm is precisely what Plotinus was speaking of: concentric rings, not a fall in space and time."

EB 48 Plotinus
Although he was interested in the occult and maintained an attitude of respectful indifference toward the traditional pagan cults, his own religion was the quest for mystical union with the Good through the exercise of pure intelligence.

The Inner Firmament and Magic Mirror of Paracelsus

{20} okay. I have no doubt that the sort of space I experienced in the "Alto Carmel" dream and the Voice" dreams is P's {Paracelsus} inner firmament. Thomas brought with him, along with the huge open books. That was the mind of Paracelsus, and it was infinitely older and wiser than mine -- and it embraced vast vistas, in terms of its "philosopher's stone: comprehension of the mysteries of the universe. It acted as a micro-mirror of the macrocosm. This is what generates the vast inner space: one man's little mind becomes this magic mirror of the macrocosm. ""V{24}

Folder 03 - 013

E.B. on alchemy: "Some physicians + a few alchemists turned to the elixir of life as an objective." [This surely means "of eternal life."] "...Medical chemistry may have been conceived in Islam, but it was born in Europe. It only awaited christening by its great publicist, Paracelsus ... His pharmacy (against all views of the time) was to lead, by a devious path, to modern chemistry. "Most famous was ... Nicolas Flamel who dreamed of an occult book, subsequently found it, + succeeded in deciphering it with the aid of a learned Jewish scholar learned in the mystic Hebrew Kabbala. "...Emerald tablet of Hermes Trismegistos, which begins, 'that which is above is like to that which is below, + that which is below is like that which is above'". Thus began the macro-microcosm worldview. {Note} Elixir of life: "thought to cure illnesses, prolong life, + bring about spiritual revitalization."

{Note:} Actually the book was by Appolonius of Tyana ___ What I am developing here, regarding Paracelsus, is this: he was a foremost alchemist but he was no fraud; he was one of the great physicians of history, + fundamental to chemistry + esp chemotherapy. The E.B. speaks of him having -not claiming to have but having- paranormal powers. The Hermetic macro-microcosm cosmology (which shows up in "Ubik" + in 3-74) I have specifically located in time + space as that of Paracelsus + Bruno et al. It is not from the ancient world but from the Renaissance. P. was the first to use mercury medicinally, but he knew it was a "very poisonous poison." His natural tongue was German (when I'm abruptly awakened or

Folder 13 37

I must never as long as I live forget that the printout of "Olive Holt" came through the Kabbala transform of Hebrew Letters: "Other Branches of the Kabbala deal with Gematria - a system by which Hebrew words are converted into numbers + then into other words of the same number - + the names of power ..." etc. I knew at the time that I was seeing a Kabbalist transform (or decoding). Thus Kabbala was crucial 1) in my overall 3-74 experience + is a clue to its nature, meaning + origin: + 2) to solving the most important - the central - problem (of dire menace) around which the total experience revolved as an adaptive problem solving; + 3) the anamnesis of 2-74; + 4) the Manifestation of "Thomas" - a clue to his origin in space-time, knowledge + identity; + finally 5) to the "other inner space Paracelsusian Universe + its Gnosis + Laws - entities. i.e. the element of Gematria as the Kingpin clue to 3-74.

[3:20] Okay. I have no doubt that the sort of space I experienced in the "Alto Carmel" dream and the Voice dreams is Paracelsus' inner firmament. Thomas brought it with him, along with the huge open books. That was the mind of Paracelsus, and it was infinitely older and wiser than mine—and it embraced vast vistas, in terms of its "philosopher's stone" comprehension of the mysteries of the universe. It acted as a micro-mirror of the macrocosm. This is what generates the vast inner space: one man's little mind becomes this magic mirror of the macrocosm

[64:E-5] The universe was created out of 22 Hebrew letters ("Sepher Yetzirah") but there is a missing 23rd letter; when his 23rd letter is added, all the negative prohibitions of the Torah vanish; severe limitation and justice are replaced by mercy and freedom: this is the third Shemittah and it is the Messianic Age. Christ, then, can be construed—as rogue information system—to be the corrected, completed basis of creation in which 23 Hebrew letters replace the 22 originally employed.
...
The plasmate is this hyper-information (the 23 letter system) feeding into the old rigid, mechanical, limited, fossilized 22 letter system. As the blood of Christ, just as Valis is his cosmic body.

[49:1043] I am sure that the plasmate—and hence the cypher in Tears—is the living Torah, the informational basis of reality, and my 2-3-74 experience was Kabbalistic—hence my seeing the Hebrew letters on the far wall by which the code (?) (or subliminal material as key) in the Xerox missive was factored out. I mean, one of the few precise elements I have that I can go on is this Kabbalistic Jewish mysticism angle. And the huge book pages I saw could have been the Torah. I could be in communication with the Shekhina or the Torah itself (the AI voice).

[49:1048] The person who could introject the cosmos would be in a position to possess absolute (and a priori) knowledge about the universe...This certainly is what being "Adam Kadmon" is all about—sure; you —your mind—would spread out throughout the entire universe!

Jacob Bohme/Boehme

Hegel's Lectures on the History of Philosophy

https://www.marxists.org/reference/archive/hegel/works/hp/hpboehme.htm
"in the year 1600, and in the twenty-fifth year of his age, once more" the light broke upon him in a second vision of the same kind. He tells that he saw a brightly scoured pewter dish in the room, and "by the sudden sight of this shining metal with its brilliant radiance" he was brought (into a meditation and a breaking free of his astral mind) "into the central point of secret nature," and into the light of divine essence. "He went out into the open air in order that he might rid his brain of this hallucination, and none the less did he continue all the more clearly as time went on to experience the vision in this way received. Thus by means of the signatures or figures, lineaments, and colours which were depicted, he could, so to speak, look into the heart and inmost nature of all creatures (in his book De signatura rerum this reason which was impressed upon him is found and fully explained); and for this he was overwhelmed with joy, thanked God, and went peacefully about his affairs." Later on he wrote several works.

PKD Cosmology and Cosmogony

As to our reality being a projected framework — it appears to be a projection by an artifact, a computerlike teaching machine that guides, programs, and generally controls us as we act without awareness of it within our projected world. The artifact, which I call Zebra, has "created" (actually only projected) our reality as a sort of mirror or image of its maker, so that the maker can obtain thereby an objective standpoint to comprehend its own self. In other words, the maker (called by Jakob Bohme in 1616 the Urgrund) is motivated to seek an instrument for self-awareness, self-knowledge, an objective opinion or appraisal and comprehension of the nature of itself (it is a vast living organism, intrinsically — without this mirror — without qualities or aspects, which is why it needs the empirical world as a reflection by which to “see” itself).

It constructed a reality-projecting artifact (or demiurge; cf. Plato and the Gnostics), which then, on command, projected the first stage of the world we know. The artifact is unaware that it is an artifact; it is oblivious to the existence of the Urgrund (in terms that the artifact would understand, the Urgrund is not, rather than is), and imagines itself to be God, the only real God.

Studying our evolving reality, the Urgrund more and more adequately comprehends itself. It must allow the reality-projecting artifact to continue to project an evolving reality no matter how defective and malshaped that reality is (during its stages) until finally that reality is a correct analog, truly, of the Urgrund itself, at which point the disparity between the Urgrund and the projected reality is abolished — whereupon an astonishing event will occur: The artifact or demiurge will be destroyed and the Urgrund will assimilate the projected reality, transmuting it into something ontologically real — and also making the living creatures in it immortal. This moment could come at any time, this entrance of the Urgrund into our otherwise spurious projected framework.

Zebra, the projecting energetic artifact, is close at hand, but it has occluded us not only to its actions but [also] to its presence. It has enormous — virtually decisive — power over us.

The prognosis for (fate of) our world is excellent: immortality and the final infusion of reality once it has reached the point of congruent analog to the Urgrund. But the fate of the artifact is destruction (unknown to it). But it is not alive, as we and the Urgrund are. We are moving toward isomorphism. The instant that precise isomorphism is reached, we at once bond to (are penetrated and assimilated by) the Urgrund, in a stunning flash of light: Bohme's "Blitz." March 1974 was not that moment, but rather Zebra the artifact adjusting its projected reality, it having gotten off course in its evolution toward isomorphism with the Urgrund (a purpose unknown to the artifact).

Since the goal of our evolving projected reality is to reach a state in which we humans are isomorphic with the true maker, the Urgrund that fashioned the projecting artifact, there is a highly important practical situation coming closer in terms of frequency and depth:

Although not yet precisely isomorphic with the Urgrund, we can be said already to possess imperfect (but very real) fragments or fractions of the Urgrund within us. Therefore the Christian mystic saying: "What is Beyond is within." This describes the third and final period of history, in which men will be ruled from within. Thus the Christian mystic saying, "Christ possessesyourbody, and you possess him as your soul."

Exegesis Folder 90 p.2 The initial false move that it tries out during its zero phase is Boehme's no, and the 1 or on phase is Boehme's yes. So my envisioning is essentially Boehme's, updated in terms of computer and information-processing systems.

P. 273 on Lamantia p. 303 on Boheme 4.7.3

P. 353 for Boehme exegete 4.8.6

PKD would have read summaries of Bohme that centered the Hermetic “as above so below.”

Example of a contemporary description of Hermetic Boehme:
“The whole outward, visible world with all its being is a signature or figure of the inward spiritual world; whatever is internal, and however its operation is, so likewise it has its outward character...for whatever the natural light is spiritually, that the earth is in its coarseness.”

Jacob Boehme: His Life and Thought, John Joseph Stoudt, Seabury Press, New York,
New York, 1968 p.243

folder 01 - 270
818

would amount to an impairment in the Godhead. Repair, then, is wisdom's job - not just for the sake of creation but for the sake of the Ground of Being itself (here I am very Gnostic). So the universe that we see is the result of the joint work of power + wisdom, but, as Boehme believed, it proceeds by means of a perpetual tension + resolution of opposites (of a Hegelian sort of dialectic). THEREFORE IT

IS A SELF-CORRECTING SYSTEM, TOTALLY HOMEOSTATIC. AS Boehme TAUGHT, WHAT WE EXPERIENCE AS EVIL IS "THE NEGATIVE QUALITIES OF THE DIALECTIC." HE ALSO TAUGHT "THAT THE WORLD IS A MERE REFLECTION OF THE DIVINE... [WHICH] TENDS TOWARD ACOSMIC PANTHEISM. "GOD GOES THROUGH STAGES OF SELF DEVELOPMENT... + THE WORLD IS MERELY THE REFLECTION OF THIS PROCESS. BOEHME ANTICIPATED HEGEL IN CLAIMING THAT THE DIVINE SELF-DEVELOPMENT OCCURS BY MEANS OF A CONTINUING DIALECTIC, OR TENSION OF OPPOSITES." Boehme believed (after the Gnostics) in a primordial Fall, echoed by Adam's Fall. He was influenced by Paracelsus. I can't help but note that Boehme's initial revelation came to him the way mine came to me (he saw sunlight reflected off a pewter vessel) + his basic revelation about God + creation was of a "yes-no" dialectic. + certainly my view of God + creation is acosmic pantheism, as

old folder 50

Which is the "other slice of bread," ie back to consciousness of it and ourselves as parts of it -- which will, when successfully achieved, abolish this false world, where upon it will be instantly replaced by the divine

"abyss." {{a term from Jacob Boehme, proving, by the way, that when he later in the same folder says he accidentally read the Boehme entry in the EB, at that later point, he actually was already familiar with Boehme and had been reading about him earlier.}}

Last edit 5 months ago by Gabriel Mckee

[Erik Davis was the first to point this out AFAIK]

63-2013
D-17

Then Yang overcomes Yin in/as Boehme's "sic-non". My two coaxial worlds are Yang + Yin seen as two coaxial worlds. Purely: unmixed. Hence my "two-source cosmogony". I cognitively & perceptually discriminated the Yang + Yin components into set-ground, a la Parmenides. & my individuation was a Taoist alchemical wedding of Yin + Yang in me: the sought-for hierogamy of all spiritual alchemy, Hermetic, Taoist, etc. What I am saying is that the Greek Kosmos vs the Gnostic dualism between heimarmene & pronoia problem (identifying heimarmene with pronoia or bipolarizing it) can be resolved by the higher synthesis of Taoism, in which the problem is resolved in an orthogonal way -- especially the matter of the possible existence of something outside the Kosmos: the transmundane deity (& world) of Gnosticism. It is the Tao, with the dialectical interaction between Yin + Yang making up the Kosmos ("reality field"), the Tao itself transcending this & yet not existing (as Lau points out contra the Platonist form doctrine). Thus, if one comprehends the Tao (Ch'ang Tao) one sees that 1) the Babylonian mechanical astrological universe is not the case, but also 2) the Xtian, Judaistic, Moslem etc personal deity who intervenes with & by pronoia is not his was; that is, a dynamic process, not a static state. I conclude that the divine self-disclosure to him was a deliberate theophany; +, applying this logic to myself, I can only think that my experience was a further divine self-disclosure. Boehme + I are both uneducated men. We did not come to our revelation by reading or education. I guess I express mine fully in "Valis": the irrational is at the root of creation, but reason [St. Sophia] has broken into this irrational reality, + transmutes + sobers it invisibly. So there is an evolution in the universe from the irrational to the rational, + I identify the former with the creator (the Father) + the latter with Christ (St. Sophia). The dialectic that pervades reality is between the old irrational + the newer rational; the former I corrolate with the Fall + illusion + ignorance - the latter with salvation + reality + knowledge. To me the savior, then, is a revealer (as he was to the Gnostics). To me the essence of the holy in God, world + man is to know. The rational, then, is a camouflaged invader lately come into a basically irrational reality, + combats that irrationality. It is reason (wisdom) against what Schopenhauer called "blind will". This, to me, is salvation, just as the blind will (of the creator) brought on the primordial Fall.

folder 01 - 271 - 819

folder 01 - 272
820

For me this is the message + meaning + historic significance of Christ; hence the birth of Christ -in the world-order + in the microcosm, the person- is reason (wisdom) itself, opposed to the antecedent powerful irrationality. To me the world order (as it was for Boehme) is a reflection of a dialectical process of self-development in the ground of being, this process being a combat between mindless being (einai) + knowing (noain). By bipolarizing these two basic aspects of itself the Godhead evolves; + we see this evolution mirrored in the intrinsically irreal (derived) world-order, which Holy Wisdom makes real by subordinating it to + assimilating it within her own self as the cosmic corpus Christi.

folder 90 - 002
April 15, 1981. Sleep insight.

Hartshorne -- pantheism -- the E.B. macro. A.F. Whitehead's process deity. We are within it (the MMSK), as interconnections, but organic model is incorrect. It is a signalling system, mutually adjusting (this is what Pythagoras saw). 0 - 1 flicker rate (misinterpreted by me as time frames); actually it's binary. Tries out a false move (0), then corrects to 1 which is actualized in/as the next discrete "frame." Has the effect of separate frames due to the off-on pulsation; discrete: isn't - is, nonbeing - being. The system shuts off every trillionth of a second (0). These are decisions. After each off (0) when it switches back on to 1 the "frame" (reality) is different (in terms of internal arrangement, adjustment, mutual adjustment, interaction/interconnection, as information flows through its circuit.

Boehme: yes - no. Hartshorne 0 - 1. Quantitative (0 - 1) converted to qualitative by spatiotemporal reality itself; that is, quantitative information is poured into material reality within which and by which it is converted into qualitative information.

While it's off, reality ceases to be. When it comes back on it is slightly different. It (the system) doesn't transmit a zero bit; it (the system) ceases to be. This is when it makes a tentative move which it then cancels in favor of a better move, at every junction (trillionth of a second, flicker rate) it discards an inferior move in favor of a better one; hence Leibnitz's view that "this is the best of all possible worlds" (this is a rapid selection process). This is how a computer works. The zero position is the void; hence when I conceive of God as VALIS I am only getting the 1; I need also the void, the zero. To comprehend/apperceive/envision the void is to envision the other phase (zero phase) of the flicker binary pulsation, the sum of the two phases being the totality. Thus the Muslims are correct; the universe is destroyed "every day" (actually every trillionth of a second) "and re-created." But what is interesting to me is that the way I conceive of this, all its decisions are made during the "spaces" that we are totally unaware of. It comes back on, back into being, back to the 1 phase when it has tried out a faulty solution and has substituted a better (the best possible?) instead, which is the next "time frame." Thus its decision-making processes, i.e. its thinking, and its nonbeing phase, lie outside our awareness. The initial false move that it tries out during its zero phase is Boehme's no, and the 1 or on phase is Boehme's yes. So my envisioning is essentially Boehme's, updated in terms of computer and information-processing systems. The similarity to the Taoist alternation of yin and yang is very obvious.

folder 90 - 004

When I experienced VALIS' mind in my own, I experienced no thoughts, but, rather, a dialectic. This dialectic, I realized at the time, is fundamental to it. I have never been able to explain to myself how this worked, but I literally experienced it as the very basis of VALIS. Well, the dialectic that I experienced is this choice, this no - yes selection at every junction or branching (into two, the irreducible branching, i.e. forking). VALIS does not think, as men think; it tries out, then chooses. Again and again. This is exactly what Whitehead is talking about, although he speaks in more general times; also, mine was an experience with and of it, as with Jakob Boehme, not speculation. If we were to see this branching, we would see elaborating arborizing and reticulation, and indeed I did see that; it is what I call the macrometasoma-kosmos, which is by now virtually infinite in complexity in terms of arborizing and reticulation.

folder 90 - 008

God defined as A.N. Whitehead defines him, "A principle of selection of the good in the universe." So the event was normal, but the memory of the discarded choice, the zero choice, was abnormal. After all, this is how my experience began: under sodium pentathol, when presented with a shiny object, I, like Jakob Boehme, perceived the divine machinery on the basis of restored memory -- which means that we normally suffer from amnesia, and this amnesia is of the zero, original discarded, voided choice, not made by us but by the Mind of the total system.

folder 90 -034

First I unscrambled the two signal-sources and then, finally, I abolished the BIP, the yin world or Form Two source, which in VALIS I stigmatize as noise. Now, this corrolates with Boehme's conception that evil is the no stages in God, which are ultimately rejected by a higher synthesis; which is another way of stating my contention that the yin or zero moves are provisional, tentative, and get cancelled. So all this adds up and is self-authenticating, by virtue of its internal integrity. As to how the deluding, punishing BIP yin signal arises, let me go back at once to my concept of how inauthentic existence consists of an evasion, a flight into time in order to escape --paradoxically!-- time itself, an escape that dreadfully transmutes space (freedom) into tyrannical time, hence causation, which is the instrument of time. One runs right into the BIP, as if it is a punishment for the failure to have the courage to look directly at --and integrate with-- reality.

Bohme's Urgrund used to understand Bruno

119 I base this on (Bruno's + Parmenides] (the) concept that the urgrund is one: it is not polyencephalic in terms of a plurality of some kind. So here is an even deeper secret than the. uncovered so far. Projected delusional world - divine stratum beneath it - time travel - now I posit an augmented corpus Christi (my model all along). spanning all time + all space; i.e. ubiquitous (in time + space). It sounds like Xenophane's Noos, with this added: living men can participate in that Noos. + this Noos is the secret ruler of the world, so that those who are taken into it become "terminals" of it - i.e. temporarily Christs This would explain my 3-74 experience. My case may have been unusual; "they" sought me out. Is this mind, outside of time + space. God? In my opinion it is Holy Wisdom - i.e Christ. But Holy Wisdom conveys more, to me. It is possible that this mind is the sum total (+ No more) of all the "magi" throughout the ages, from all cultures, who have entered it: polyencephalic fusion extending back to Egypt. This is

ZEBRA, the invisible gvide of history, unsuspected by those not in it. For me, it will always be primarily the corpus Christi, but probably it includes all wise men (e.g. Plato, Bruno, appolonics of yana, Asklepios, Irnaton, etc). This is quite some discovery. + it reaches over into the urgrund, with no clear demarkation. At that evel it's all one: man raised to Godhood, in response to